Backstage Opening Segment:

The show opens with chaos before the first bell. NXT Champion Trick Williams is seen warming up backstage, but the cameras catch a shocking moment: Karrion Kross has returned! He ambushes Trick in the hallway, viciously attacking him before disappearing into the shadows, leaving Trick sprawled on the floor. The crowd erupts at the sight, and the NXT commentary team speculates if Kross has his sights set on reclaiming his dominance in the brand.

Match 1 – Vacant NXT Tag Team Championships:

The D’Angelo Family vs. Chase U

Both teams start out very strong, with Tony using their power and experience against Andre Chase.

Andre gets the first near-fall early, showcasing teamwork with double-team maneuvers alongside Duke Hudson, but The D’Angelo Family keeps coming back and grounding them with brutal strikes and suplexes.

In the final moments of the match, Tony slides on brass knuckles and delivers a knockout shot to Hudson.

Winners and once again NXT Tag Team Champions: The D’Angelo Family.

The crowd boos as The D'Angelo Family celebrates with the titles, hoisting them high as they lay claim to NXT's tag team division.

The Hurricane at SkyRise Apartments:

The broadcast cuts to a pre-taped segment at The Hurricane's apartment, showing him in his signature comedic flair.

The camera captures The Hurricane trying to get ready for a big appearance, fumbling with his ULW title as he attempts to put on his superhero costume.

In a scene reminiscent of Mrs. Doubtfire, the title slips out of the window. The camera follows in slow motion as the championship falls down the city street... only for a semi-truck to run right over it.

The Hurricane collapses in comedic despair, face-palming, as he yells at some kids walking by the run over strap. "Hey you hooligans get away from that! That belt belongs to the ULW World Champion...me...The Hurricane!"

One of the kids flips The Hurricane off and turns his back and begins to urinate on the title.

Match 2 – Inaugural NXT Women's Championship:

Roxanne Perez vs. Indi Hartwell

This match is intense from the opening bell, with both women exchanging high-impact strikes and submission attempts.

Indi Hartwell uses her crafty ring psychology, trying to slow Roxanne down, but Roxanne shows resilience and determination.

After a hard-fought back-and-forth sequence, Roxanne hits a breathtaking top-rope maneuver followed by her finisher, Pop Rocks. She covers Indi, and the referee counts three.

Winner & Inaugural NXT Women's Champion: Roxanne Perez.

The arena erupts as Roxanne celebrates, clutching the shiny new championship. Confetti falls, and the commentary team hails the birth of a new era in the women's division.

Main Event – NXT North American Championship:

"All Ego" Ethan Page (c) vs. Buddy Murphy

This match is a hard-hitting, back-and-forth showdown. Murphy brings intensity and technical skill, but Page uses his cunning and raw power to counter.

Several near-falls occur, keeping the audience on the edge of their seats. Page takes advantage of every opening, showing why he's a crafty champion.

The finish comes when Page hits a devastating All Ego finisher and scores the pinfall.

Winner & Still NXT North American Champion: Ethan Page.

Post-Match Segment:

Page grabs a mic, soaking in the cheers from the crowd, and declares: “Who in the back thinks they’re worthy of facing me for this title at New Year’s Evil in December? Step up... if you dare.”

A tense silence fills the arena... then suddenly, Matt Cardona’s music hits. The crowd explodes as Cardona strides to the ring, holding up his hand in his signature “Always Ready” pose.

Page stares him down, smirking, acknowledging the challenge, while the fans chant Cardona’s catchphrase. The stage is set for a blockbuster North American title showdown at New Year’s Evil.

Show Closing:

The episode ends with a dramatic shot of Ethan Page and Matt Cardona face-to-face in the ring, teasing a heated rivalry for December. Meanwhile, backstage cameras show Trick Williams recovering from his Kross attack, leaving viewers wondering when the NXT Championship feud will ignite.
