Ethan Page versus HBP

The show opens with high energy as Ethan Page struts to the ring, mocking the crowd and talking up his “Era of Ego.” But when HBP’s music hits, the arena erupts. From the bell, the pace is electric—Page using cunning and ring awareness, HBP answering with pure fire.

Midway through, Page counters a springboard cutter with a brutal knee strike, nearly ending the match. Barrett shouts, “That knee could’ve shattered his jaw!” But HBP refuses to stay down. Clearly, the legend has something to prove.

The closing sequence sees HBP escape Ego’s Edge, flip out of a second attempt, and land a breathtaking Superkick for the three-count.

McAfee screams, “Two-time champ! THAT’S HEART, BABY!”

HBP celebrates with the crowd, holding the title high as pyro blasts across the stage.

World Tag Team Championship
DIY vs Judgment Day (JD and Dom)

Dom and JD isolate Ciampa early, using classic Judgment Day manipulation. Dom steals cheap shots whenever the ref's back is turned, drawing loud "You suck, Dom!" chants.

The tide turns when Gargano gets the hot tag and launches into his signature rally: superkicks, slingshot spear, and a Meeting in the Middle to JD for the win!

DIY (c) def. Dominik Mysterio & JD McDonagh (Judgment Day)

As DIY celebrates, Kofi Kingston jumps them from behind! The crowd pops in shock—then explodes as Xavier Woods, newly re-signed, slides in and joins the attack.

Barrett: "THE REAL NEW DAY IS HERE—AND THEY'RE NOT PLAYING GAMES!"

Kofi & Woods stand over the fallen champs, sending a message:
The New Day wants the titles.

World Heavyweight Championship
Damian Priest versus John Cena

Priest enters laser-focused.

The match is physical and deliberate. Priest targets Cena's ribs while Cena battles with an old-school power offense. A huge turning point comes when Priest counters the Five Knuckle Shuffle into a tornado kick.

Priest attempts South of Heaven, but Cena counters into an STF that nearly forces a tap. Priest escapes and hits Razor's Edge, but Cena kicks out at 2.9—McAfee yells, "Cena is Superman!"

In the final seconds, Cena ducks a spinning heel kick, hits an AA, holds on, rolls Priest up, lifts him again, and delivers a second Attitude Adjustment for the victory.

John Cena stands tall as fireworks erupt.

Intercontinental Championship
Chad Gable versus Joe Gacy

Gacy wrestles with eerie calm, countering Gable's technical precision with unorthodox holds. Mid-match, the lights flicker—and Rowan appears at ringside. Moments later, Braun Strowman storms down, followed by Dexter Lumis, each trying to tilt the match in Gacy's favor.

Barrett: "This is an ambush! It's practically a lumberjack match of monsters!"

Gable survives every distraction, every attempted interference, and traps Gacy in Chaos Theory—but Lumis pulls Gacy's arm under the rope before the three. The ref never sees it.

Despite chaos outside, Gable catches Gacy in Ankle Lock, grapevines the leg, and forces the tap.

Gable escapes the ring immediately after, championship in hand, shouting "THANK YOU!" through heavy breaths as the monsters stare him down.

Women's World Championship
Rhea Ripley versus Bayley

Bayley comes in aggressive and technical, forcing Rhea to wrestle from underneath for the first several minutes. Rhea eventually powers out of Bayley's submission chains and shifts the match's momentum with a devastating avalanche powerbomb.

Bayley rallies with a Rose Plant attempt, but Rhea blocks it and nails Riptide. Bayley kicks out—barely.

In the final stretch, Bayley hits an elbow drop but can't keep Rhea down. Ripley responds with a headbutt, Prism Lock, and a final Riptide for the victory.

Rhea stands tall, title raised, shouting "MAMI'S ALWAYS ON TOP!"

WWE Championship – Main Event
The Rock versus Seth Rollins

Special Guest Referee: Jesse "The Body" Ventura

From his entrance, Ventura commands the room—laying down strict rules and promising “no funny business.”

The match is chess at high speed. Rollins uses speed and precision; Rock mixes power strikes with veteran savvy. Ventura calls everything clean, stopping distractions before they begin.

Mid-match, Rollins hits a frog splash that barely misses a three-count. Rock answers with a spinebuster and People’s Elbow—but Rollins kicks out to the loudest reaction of the night!!

Rollins attempts the Stomp; Rock catches him, transitions into a sharpshooter, but Seth fights out and hits a Pedigree.

Rock kicks out.

The final moments are frantic—Rollins goes for another Stomp, Rock dodges, grabs the waist, and hits a sudden, emphatic Rock Bottom.

1–2–3.

Ventura raises Rock’s hand, saying:

“Fair and square. That’s how a champion retains.”

After the match, a disgruntled Rollins pushes Ventura. Roman and Mox come to the ring and make a run at Jesse. Jesse tosses them both out of the ring and hits the Akro Krane on Seth! Jesse looks at the Rock and says, “On December 13th...I will make history by becoming a 26 time World Champion. I am so sorry that it will cost you everything, but that is how the world works sometimes. Both of us can’t have the fairytale ending. I am the only one that can stop you from reaching immortality...and I will.”
